

Final Year Project Sharing Session 2013

The Division of Applied Science and Technology has organized a Final Year Project Sharing Session for Year 1 students in Associate of Science in Information Systems Development on 6 June 2013. The goal of this sharing is to facilitate the understanding of importance to kick start the Final Year Project early so as to get better results for both the year-round project and the required courses in the year 2 study. This sharing session was coordinated by Dr. Desmond Tsoi, the Programme Leader of Associate of Science in Information Systems Development.

On that day, around 20 Year 1 students attended the session and 10 Year 2 students* were there to share their experience on Final Year Project. Topics discussed ranging from finding groupmates, project topic brainstorming, division of labors, system implementation, report writing to the techniques to deal with the difficulties. The session was concluded by a Q&A and students who attended the talk found it very useful.
