The FYP Winner's Show 2011

The final event of the Final Year Project is the Final Year Project Award Presentation and Winner's Show 2011, which was held on April 13, 2011. The aim of this event is to reward the good performing teams and to allow them to share their experience with their classmates and year 1 students. There were over 50 participants attending the show to share the achievement with the winners. Dr Cyril Tse, the Acting Head of DCO, started with a welcome speech to outline the aims of the Final Year Project is to integrate all the skills that they learnt from their two years of study into a project that benefits the society. He also commended on students' good presentation skill together with the efforts they had contributed to the final products. After the award presentation ceremony, each winning team demonstrated their project to the audience, as well as to share what they have learnt and how can they transfer their knowledge into the final projects.

The Final Year Project allows our students to integrate what they have learnt in the different courses and this Award Presentation and Winner's Show can definitely demonstrate the ability of our students towards media and IT development. The six winning teams may not be the best among the 22 projects, but it can certainly represent the achievement of all 22 teams.
