

Game Booth Design Competition 2017 by Fu Hong Society

FU HONG SOCIETY is a social welfare organization. This NGO organized a game booth design competition and the targets will be the mentally handicapped persons and the public. In fact, environmental protection is the responsibility of everyone, and students from ASc ES year 1 joined this competition. They wanted to spread the environmental message to the general public

At the beginning, the students submitted a game booth proposal, which included ① aims of the game, ② how to play, ③ budget, and ④ manpower allocation. The theme of our game was to teach the participants to do RECYCLING.

Then, we were selected by the FU HONG SOCIETY judging panel, and students had to start making the game. We used a lot of un-used materials, such as fallen leaves, carton boxes, and actual plastic bottles, cans, waste paper. Participants had to use a wooded stick (twig) to "fish" the waste and put it in the relevant recycle box.

Final Presentation was held on 18 November 2017, apart from the judges, members from the SOCIETY also joined the game. We eventually won the 1st runner up in the School Section. And ES students were very excited and gained a lot in this memorable experience.

PHOTO FEATURES

Preparation of the materials in CCCU Telford campus

Game Booth Set up

Game in action

We did it!